Purpose Statement

The National Center for PTSD acknowledges that one of the most common presenting complaints in those with PTSD is sleep disturbance. Problems with sleep may lead to further exacerbation of PTSD and other comorbid symptoms. Despite the growing recognition that sleep disturbances are one of the most common detrimental components of PTSD, many providers are not well educated on effective protocols for improving sleep. This knowledge-based course focuses on the current evidence-based practices used to assess and treat sleep problems in Veterans with PTSD. Information covered during this course includes: a brief background on sleep stages, sleep regulation/processes, and how insomnia develops; the importance of treating sleep problems and sleep complaints associated with PTSD; a review of pharmacologic and nonpharmacologic treatment strategies for patients with sleep disturbances and PTSD; and identification and treatment of other possible sleep disorders that may affect those with PTSD.

The goals of this course are to address this practice gap by:

- a) Providing information on pharmacologic and nonpharmacologic treatment interventions available for Veterans with their PTSD-related sleep problems.
- b) Highlighting the innovative ways certain interventions can be implemented via groups and telehealth technology.

Target Audience

Psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and advanced practice nurses as well as other mental health providers and pharmacists involved with treating patients with PTSD.

Outcome/Objectives

At the conclusion of this educational program, learners will be able to:

1. list the advantages/disadvantages to pharmacotherapy versus psychotherapy as recommended treatment;
2. cite the first-line PTSD recommendations (SSRIs/SNRIs);
3. list adjunctive treatment options;
4. list the first-line sleep medication recommendations for sleep problems related to PTSD;
5. match medication characteristics to sleep medications; and
6. identify contraindications for use of sleep medications (older patients, patients with history of TBI, use of other medications, sleep aids).

Disclosure Statement

The VA Employee Education System (EES) must ensure balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor in all of its individually sponsored or jointly EES sponsored educational activities. All prospective faculty and planning committee members participating in an EES activity must disclose any relevant financial interest or other relationship with: (a) the manufacturer(s) of any commercial product(s) and / or provider(s) of commercial services discussed in an educational presentation, and (b) any commercial supporters of the activity. Relevant financial interest or other relationship includes, but is not limited to, such things as personal receipt of grants or research support, employee or consultant status, stockholder, member of speakers' bureau, within the prior 12 months. EES is responsible for collecting such information from prospective planners and faculty, evaluating the disclosed information to determine if a conflict of interest is present and, if a conflict of interest is present, to resolve such conflict. Information regarding such disclosures and the resolution of the conflicts for planners and faculty shall be provided to activity participants. When an unlabeled use of a commercial product or an investigational use not yet approved by the FDA for any purpose is discussed during an educational activity, EES shall require the speaker to disclose that the product is not labeled for the use under discussion or that the product is still investigational. The faculty and planning committee members reported that they had no relevant financial relationships with commercial entities in any amount that occurred within the past 12 months that create a conflict of interest.

This activity includes no discussion of uses of FDA regulated drugs or medical devices which are experimental or off-label.

* The ACCME defines "relevant financial relationships" as financial relationships in any amount occurring within the past 12 months that creates a conflict of interest.
